The purpose of study is to describe and analysis Islamic communication system in Republic of Indonesia. The research method is done by library and information studies literature published was examined using content analysis method. The process included several steps: determining which journals and books met the inclusion criteria; selecting the research articles from the included journals and book; and extracting data from the relevant articles. As we know Indonesia has limit transportation and communication technology, very large area and has different language, culture and religion. The result of Islamic communication system is organization as problem solved on communication system. Islamic organization with multifaceted undertaking is required careful assessment on technology information, allocation resources, economic impact and religion impact. The role figure of leadership (usually namely Kyai) in communication is very important to connect with same organization. Key word: Islamic Communication, Communication system

INTRODUCTION
The Indonesia is various cultures and language. According to the U.S. Library of Congress, more than 650 different languages and dialects are spoken in the country. The partition of Indonesia by water has often made interisland communication.1 Someone needs extra-communication to understand and make sense to communication with various regions. Thus, local languages such as Javanese, Balinese, Sasak, and Sundanesese are still used in some areas, although Bahasa Indonesia serves as the national and unifying language.ii Not only culture and language are various in Indonesia but also religion.
Islam is a biggest religion in Indonesia, more than 230 million people, ranks fourth among the world’s countries in population. In addition, a staggering 88 percent of its people, more than 200 million, are Muslim. This is about the same number of Muslims as the nations of Egypt, Iraq, Iran, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon, and Jordan combined. In other words, Indonesia has nearly the same number of Muslims as the entire Middle East. Indonesia as world spotlight because has the biggest Muslim and as safe and peaceful country although, multifaceted religion, culture and language. There are many jealous country with Indonesia therefor they want divisive Indonesia with make an issue like religious and culture. This is a challenging for Indonesia to maintain the integrity of the nation. Not only the nation but also religious especially Islam which take challenging as maintain religious existence. The form to keep religious existence is communication.

LITERATURE REVIEW

Communication System

Communication is the process of exchanging feelings and ideas. Communication is required between two persons. Communications is a vast field, and it would be futile to try to gain expertise in every aspect.

System definition is a set of object or element in interaction to achieve specific goal. System is a multifaceted undertaking that requires careful assessments of requirements, technology alternatives, the allocation of resources, and economic impacts.

Luhmann’s autopoietic communication theory is defined into three are: first, actions need not be inherently social whereas communications although this does verge on the tautological (replay ideas) since the social is defined as a system of communications. Second, social actions already presuppose communications in the sense that they rely on or raise the expectation of recognition, understanding, and acceptance by others. third a communication is more than simply an action.
Communication system is a social action on interaction between two or more person with exchanging feeling and idea raising the expectation of recognize, understanding, acceptable to achieve goal with multifaceted undertaking which require careful assessment of requirement, technology alternative, the allocation of resources and economic impact.

Islamic theory of communication based on a narrow and essentialist conceptualization of ‘authentic’ culture, a particular communication theory that is more pertinent to Muslim Societies, is the latest and most telling of the ‘Islamic Studies’. Islam is a communication based religion, then like any religion, is facing many challenges to evolve and adjust to modernity and in particular to the economic and cultural power of a dominant West. Islam is a communicative religion, and Allah is communicative Allah who takes keen interest in the affairs of His creatures. The rules and regulations of communication among human being as it was mentioned in Holy Qur’an and Sunnah of prophet Mohammed. Therefore, this chapter presents first, the origin of language in Islam and the theoretical perspective of communication model and theory in early and current Islamic arena.

Islamic Communication system is social action between Islamic organization with exchanging idea and raising the expectation of recognizing, understanding, acceptable to achieve specific goal (Da’wah) with multifaceted undertaking which require careful assessment of requirements, technology alternative, the allocation resources, economic impact and religion impact.

The Classification of communication system based on the requirements, the communications system can be classified into six categories, three types as part in another sources are:

a. Point-to-point communication: In this type, communication takes place between two end points. For instance, in the case of voice communication using telephones, there is one calling party and one called party. Hence the communication is point-to-point.

b. Point-to-multipoint communication: In this type of communication, there is one sender and multiple recipients. For example, in voice conferencing, one person will be talking but many others can listen. The message from the sender has to be multicast to many others.

c. Broadcasting: In a broadcasting system, there is a central location from which information is sent to many recipients, as in the case of audio or video broadcasting. In a broadcasting system, the listeners are passive, and there is no reverse communication path.

The part same other sources

d. Simplex communication is a unidirectional communication system. Communication is possible in one direction only. Typically, the transmitter (the one talking) sends a signal and it's up to the other receiving device (the listener) to figure out what was sent. Broadcast systems like the T.V and radio signals, fire alarm systems etc.

e. Half Duplex is a bidirectional communication is possible, but only in one direction at a time, means one can either transmit or receive a signal at a particular instant of time in this system of communication.

f. Full Duplex is communication system simultaneous two-way communication is achieved

The objective of designing a communication system is for the electrical signal at the transmitting end to be reproduced at the receiving end with minimal distortion. Communication systems are designed to specific availability requirement. The various functions to be carried out in a communication system are: multiplexing, multiple access, error detection and correction, source coding, switching and signaling.

Communication systems can be broadly divided into analog communication systems and digital communication systems. In analog communication systems, the analog signal is transmitted. In digital communication system, even though the input signal is in analog form, it is converted into digital format and then sent through the medium. For a noise condition, the digital communication system gives better performance than the analog system. All the newly developed communication systems are digital systems. Only in broadcasting applications, is analog communication used extensively.

Islamic Communication In Indonesia

Arab traders carried Islam to Indonesia from the twelfth to the fifteenth centuries. First contacts were in Sumatra, Kalimantan, and northern Java. Islam is a biggest religion in Indonesia, more than 230 million people, ranks fourth among the world’s countries in population. In addition, a staggering 88 percent of its people, more than 200 million, are Muslim. Islam is the dominant religion in Indonesia, and the country has the world’s largest Muslim population. Eighty-eight percent of the citizens are Muslim, but the government allows other religions to exist. Included within these other government-sanctioned religions are Protestants (5 percent), Roman Catholics (3 percent), Hindus (2 percent), and Buddhists (1 percent). Only one percent of the population falls into the “Other” category of nonreligious or people holding other beliefs.
The Indonesia is various language and culture, more than 650 different languages and dialects are spoken in the country. The partition of Indonesia by water has often made interisland communication. Islamic religion needs extra-communication to understand and make sense to communication with various regions. The communication forms of Islam to understanding Islamic religion in various regions which has various culture and language. According to Indonesia’s 2000 census (the first to include ethnicity since 1930), more than 500 different ethnic groups live in the country. The Javanese are the largest group, followed by Sundanese, Malays, and Madurese. The country also has significant numbers of Chinese, Minangkabau, Batak, Buginese, Balinese, Ambonese, Dayaks, and Sasaks. Many of the ethnic groups, like the Javanese, Balinese, and Ambonese.

Indonesia is a place with limited transportation and communication technology. These are some of the factors that can severely restrict contact with neighbors, even though they may live only a few miles away. Today, with cell phones, satellite technology, the Internet, aircraft, sophisticated ships, and other transportation systems, people have been able to overcome many of the challenges posed by their environment. Opportunity to visit neighboring islands without risking life or injury because of the dangerous ocean waters that separated communities. Others were unable or elected not to cross the difficult mountainous terrain, even when they were on the same island. These factors fostered the development of different cultures (people with different ways of living), even though the groups may be only miles apart. New technologies have helped people bridge these barriers and connect in ways not possible a few decades ago.
Islamic communication in Indonesia to understanding, unite and attract. The large Muslim population, the law is sometimes complex because Sharia law, moral law from the most holy book of Islam, the Koran, often plays an important role in local courts. Muslim influence in the government and the introduction of Shar’iah law, government has never been in the hands of leaders determined to identify the state with Islam. On the contrary, the state ideology of Pancasila (Five Principles) embodies a vision of a pluralist state in which no particular religion is endowed with special privileges. xxiii There has been a steady rise in Muslim consciousness and ritual formalism, especially among the urban middle classes and student population. University campuses have become fertile ground for an Islamic awakening, with students being recruited into a diverse range of disciplined organizational cells. xxiv

The vision and mission of Islam Indonesia is Dakwah. xxv Dakwah is the Indonesian term for the Islamic concept of the call or invitation to follow the path of Allah. A common way of translating Dakwah is missionary work, or propagation of the faith. Like Harold Lasswell’s famous model of communication, dakwah has five components: the da’i, or the person engaged in Dakwah; the mad’u, or target audience; the channel of communication; the message; and the effect. xxvi Dakwah is a fundamental activity of Indonesian state Islamic institutes and universities. Communication is something close to dakwah; the meaning of dakwah is to give a message to non-Muslims. xxvii

The model communication (dakwah) incorporated organization form. Islamic organisations in Indonesia belong to the Sunni branch of orthodoxy, originating in the Arab hinterlands, as opposed to the splinter branch of Shi’ism, which spread to parts of Persia. Indonesian orthodoxy has coalesced into two major movements: the kaum muda (‘young group’) or santri moderen (modernists) and kaum tua (‘old group’) or santri kolot (the traditionalists). Islamic modernism in Indonesia grew out of an Egyptian reform movement and in response to early indigenous nationalism at the turn of the century. It drew substantial inspiration from the reform ideas of the anti-colonial, pan-Islamist Jamal al-Din al-Afghani (1839–1897) and the ‘Father of Modernism’ Muhammad Abduh (1845–1905).
Representing Islamic modernism at home were organisations such as Sarekat Islam (United Islam, SI) and the Muhammadiyah, both founded in 1912, and Persatuan Islam (Unity of Islam, Persis) founded in 1923. The modernist organizations mostly catered to a socioeconomic class of educated urban elites and merchant traders. They gave priority to education, social welfare programs and dakwah (religious propagation) activities. Muhammadiyah is the main modernist organisation today with an estimated 28 to 30 million members. It was founded in Yogyakarta (Central Java) by K.H.Ahmad Dahlan, Two prominent religious scholars (kiai), Wahab Chasbullah and Hasjim Asj’ari founded the Nahdlatul Ulama (Revival of the Religious Scholars, NU) in 1926.Two prominent religious scholars (kiai), Wahab Chasbullah and Hasjim Asj’ari founded the Nahdlatul Ulama (Revival of the Religious Scholars, NU) in 1926 in order to protect the economic and social-religious interests of pesantren (religious boarding schools) NU has an estimated membership of over 30 million people.xxviii

RESEARCH METHOD

Library and information studies literature published was examined using content analysis method. The process included several steps: determining which journals and books met the inclusion criteria; selecting the research articles from the included journals and book; and extracting data from the relevant articles.xxix Investigators compiled a comprehensive list of potential journals and for inclusion in the study. Article inclusion/exclusion was done independently by two researchers using a standard inclusion/exclusion. The form and A standardized form was used to capture data about: the domain; research method(s); study objective; author affiliation and country; abstract inclusion and whether the abstract was structured; literature review inclusion; and research funding.

DISCUSSION

Islamic communication system in Indonesia is a social action between Islamic organization with exchanging idea and raising the expectation of recognizing, understanding, acceptable to achieve specific goal (Da’wah) with multifaceted undertaking which require careful assessment of requirements, technology alternative, the allocation resources, economic impact and religion impact where take a place in Indonesia. Indonesia is large area which various language 650 different languages, various cultures 500 different ethnic groups live and various religion 6 difference religions allow in Indonesia.

Islam come to Indonesia from the twelfth to the fifteenth centuriesxxx dominant religion in Indonesia 88 percent of its people, more than 200 million, are Muslim. The biggest religion Indonesia is not easy; there a strategy is done by Muslim to a biggest religion. First of all is communication, communication is very important made Indonesia society understand about Islamic religion especially in system communication, as we know that Indonesia is very large area and has different language, culture and religion.

Indonesia is a place with limited transportation and communication technology. Since 12 century when Islam come to Indonesia. Communication only a few miles away even though the groups may be only miles apart, through a little group an area will make a small organization. The small organization with a leadership figure will connect with other organization with same purpose. The small organization is a pioneer the big organization. The role figure of leadership (usually namely Kyai) in communication is very important to connect with same organization, as we know Indonesia has limit transportation and communication technology, very large area and has different language, culture and religion. It’s impossible that communication with individually consider with large area, different language and culture to learning Islam. The effective communication in Indonesia with limit transportation and communication technology is made a group in area or organization.

Through organization is problem solved on communication system. Islamic organization approximately 35 organizations includes: Nahdlatul Ulama (NU), Muhammadiyah, Al Irsyad Al Islamiyyah, Al Ittihadiyyah, Al Washliyah, Dewan Dakwah Islamiyah Indonesia (DDII), Dewan Masjid Indonesia (DMI), Forum Umat Islam (FUI), Front Pembela Islam (FPI), Forum Dakwah Islam Indonesia (FDII), Gerakan Pemuda Ansor, Himpunan ahlus Sunnah Untuk Masyarakat Islami (Hasmi), Hidayatullah, Hizbut Tahrir Indonesia (HTI), Ikatan Cendekiawan Muslim Indonesia (ICMI), Ikatan Da'i Indonesia (Ikadi), Lembaga Dakwah Kemuliaan Islam (LDKI), Lembaga Dakwah Islam Indonesia (LDII), Majelis Intelektual dan Ulama Muda Indonesia (MIUMI), Majelis Az Zikra, Majelis Dakwah Islamiyah, Majelis Ulama Indonesia (MUI), Majelis Tafsir Al-Quran (MTA), Mathla’ul Anwar, Nahdlatul Wathan (NW), Pemuda Muslimin Indonesia, Persatuan Islam (Persis), Persatuan Islam Tionghoa Indonesia (PITI), Persatuan Ummat Islam (PUI), Persatuan Tarbiyah Islamiyah (Perti), Syarikat Islam (SI), Wahdah Islamiyah, BP4. The Islamic organization has difference way to Da’wah but they have same aim Da’wah. The organization is media communication effective to accommodate society (Ummah) to extend their aspiration and learning about Islam. Every organization has branch in every area in Indonesia which will connect with center their organization. The form connects of organization will make linkages. The linkages in Islamic organization are a form of communication system or Islamic Communication system. The Islamic communication system can be seen in Figure 1.
Interaction linkages between organizations will raise expectation on recognizing, understanding and acceptable. Social organization interaction linkage has characteristic autopetic or open which exchange feeling and raising the idea to a mission. Linkage in Islamic organization is between 35 Islamic organizations. The way of interaction linkage can classify into two part include manual and using technology: manual can divide into point to point that individual communication such as someone communication with Islamic figure (Kyai) to solve their problem with Islamic knowledge with individual communication or kyai communication with kyai from other Islamic organization, point to multiple such as Islamic figure (Kyai) talk with two or more (kyai) with small group, broadcast with many recipient or social such as kyai dakwah in public or with all Islamic organization. Using technology, as we know that Indonesia has limited technology communication, Indonesia just using simplex is communication using broadcast system such as TV, radio etc, Indonesia star up to develop into Half Duplex and Full Duplex. Linkages 35 Islamic organization form can understanding and acceptable in social community because of figure (kyai) in each organization and each area who understanding each language, culture and come into Da’wah cross religion.
